Acupuncture for Labor and Pregnancy

Sunday, September 16, 10-5 p.m.

Course description:

Pregnancy is a time when women experience different health issues and practitioners are sometimes reluctant to treat for fear of negatively affecting the growing baby. Acupuncture is a safe and effective way to address nausea and pain during pregnancy, decrease the duration of labor and may reduce the need for other interventions. This course will examine the current research and focus on practical acupuncture techniques in the area of fertility, pregnancy and labor.

Register:

www.ccnm.edu/upcoming-courses

Contact us:

416-498-1255 ext. 255 | continuing_education@ccnm.edu

1255 Sheppard Avenue East Toronto, Ontario M2K 1E2

Open to:

NDs, health-care practitioners, students

Credits:

Category A Pending

Pricing:

Regular: $159

Early Bird: $135 (Ends August 17, 2018)

Student: $95

ccnm
CANADIAN COLLEGE OF NATUROPATHIC MEDICINE